AUM Online

My Institution   Co   👤 Haegang Yang   ▼

🏠   Discussion Board   Forum: Consider this?   Thread: Monsters   ?

Thread: Monsters

🔍 Search   ↻ Refresh

Select: All None   « ‹ Thread 14 of 20 › »

Message Actions ⌄   Expand All   Collapse All   1 Post(s) in this Thread   0 Unread

👤   Haegang Yang   3 months ago

Monsters

It is hard to define what a monster is. If I have to choose which is a monster between a result of creation or a creator, I will say the creation is a monster. Most of the purposes of something is not mean or bad such as Dr. Jekyll and Tony Stark. Dr. Jekyll has a hypothesis that human being has two egos which are bad and kind. Then he made a drug which can separate the ego into two parts. He just wanted to prove his hypothesis and did not tend to make that bad creation. In case of Avengers : Age of Ultron was similar. Tony Stark intended to make Ultron to keep world safe. But Ultron didn't. We cannot say Tony Stark and Dr Jekyll are innocent but they did not intend to make a monster. Thanos who wanted to decrease population to half of it is a monster. Even though people are too many to live or survival in a planet, increasing of population was not intended to make a famine. I think purpose for creating something really matters to decide whether one is a monster or not.

Reply

Select: All None

Message Actions ⌄   Expand All   Collapse All

← OK